

Direct From the Farm: A Guide to Buying Local in Montco

LOCAL FARMS

FARMERS' MARKETS

How to Shop Local:

Farms are an important part of Montgomery County's local culture, history, and beauty. And our county's farms are also a crucial part of the local economy. Farming families, some of which have been farming their land here for hundreds of years, provide fresh and healthy food for the more than 800,000 people who call this county home, and maintain a way of life that will greatly matter to future generations.

This guide includes both farms with on-site stores or farm stands, nurseries and tree farms with native and locally grown plants, specialty stores that sell local goods, as well as farmers' markets across Montgomery County. A map in the middle of this guide shows the approximate locations of these destinations.

For more information about buying local, to send along new information about possible additions to the guide, or to request additional copies of this publication, contact the Montgomery County Planning Commission at 610-278-3722.

Farmers' Markets

Farmers' markets in Montgomery County are a great asset for shoppers looking for local products. Many vendors are unique to just a handful of markets here, and each market sells items that others do not. Some of our markets may sell produce from outside of the state—for some of us, New Jersey farms are closer than nearby Pennsylvania counties!

Montgomery County Farmland Preservation Program

Since 1990, Montgomery County has worked to preserve working farms as a valued economic, cultural and natural resource. The county's Farmland Preservation Program makes it possible for eligible farmers to keep their land and to continue farming by selling an agricultural easement. This allows an owner to keep the land but he/she no longer has the right to build non-agricultural buildings. The land must remain in farming in perpetuity. Any future owners must also continue to grow productive crops or pastures. Applying to the program is voluntary. As of 2016, 154 farms have been preserved, with another four in the works. This totals 9,089 acres of county farmland. Contact Elizabeth Emlen for more information.

Montgomery County Farm Bureau

The county's Farm Bureau is one of 54 county chapters which comprise Pennsylvania Farm Bureau—a state-wide farm organization representing agriculture before government, while providing cost-saving services and information to farmers and rural families since 1950. It is a grassroots organization whereby its members decide and implement policies for problem solving. Monthly publications, newsletters, and social media updates keep members informed of its work and mission. Educational events promote agriculture through programs in schools, AgDays, farm shows and county events. Our non-profit foundation, Pennsylvania Friends of Agriculture, operates mobile agricultural education science labs which travel to schools statewide. The Foundation also awards agricultural scholarships for the Penn State University College of Agricultural Sciences and Delaware Valley School of Agriculture.

Penn State Cooperative Extension – Montgomery County

The nation's more than 100 land-grant colleges and universities have a shared critical mission—extension. Along with teaching and research, institutions such as Penn State “extend” their resources, solving public needs with university resources through non-formal, non-credit programs. These programs are administered through county and regional extension offices, which bring land-grant expertise to the most local of levels. Penn State Cooperative Extension's mission is to enhance quality of life by providing informal outreach educational opportunities to individuals, families, businesses and communities. The Extension teaches people how to solve problems, do something better, live healthier, manage resources wisely, and create a sustainable future.
